As the corresponding author, I would like to know about the progress of our article "Identification of metabolite compounds from ethanolic extract of the Red Gedi Leaves (Abelmoschus manihot L. Medik) by LC-ESI-MS" submitted online through the RJPT website.

Is there anything else that I should do?

Do I have to wait for the Editor instruction to send the manuscript to the reviewer(s) and whether I should use my email address to send and collect the reviewer(s) comment then forwarding to you?

Thank you very much in advance for your advice.

Best regards,
D.Lyrawati

Thank you for sending our article for review on the 7th of December 2021. Recently, I have checked the RJPT website to see the progress of our article "Identification of metabolite compounds from ethanolic extract of the Red Gedi Leaves (Abelmoschus manihot L. Medik) by LC-ESI-MS". It was written that the manuscript was sent to reviewer on December 7, 2021, and, it was also written that reviewers have not commented yet. Is there anything else that I should do?

Do I have to send again other potential

Dear Editor RJPT,

According to the web and email from RJPT, our paper was accepted for volume 15 issue 11.

It has been one month after the invoice released. We have paid the publication fee via bank transfer on 24 of February 2022. The written info on web/OJS RJPT is "Payment Verification Pending" since 24 February 2022.

I would be happy to have a confirmation from you whether you have received the payment and info when our paper will be officially published on RJPT website.

Could we have the (galley proof of our) paper at your earliest convenience?

Would it be possible to have the preprint and DOI of our accepted manuscript, as we need all as proofs of the publication.

Looking forward to hearing from you at your earliest convenience.

Thank you very much for allowing and facilitating us to share our work in your journal.
